Once More.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Des Moines, June 3.—According to reports received this morning Senator

of 1200, Hull concedes his defeat. Reports from all over the state point to a large majority for Allison, Cummins which two years ago went for Cummins this year returned a majority for Allison.

Seven congressional districts give Allison a majority. He carried practically every county in the first and second districts. In the third district he lost Hamilton county and in the fifth Cummins secured a majority in three of the counties.

The returns are coming in slowly. About half the precincts of the state have been reported. B. P. Carroll, republican, was nominated for governor by a majority of over fifteen thousand. For lieutenant governor George Clarke is in the lead with indications he will be named. The rest of the state ticket has not been reported save in a few isolated instances.

Notable victories throughout the state for congressional honors are reported as follows: J. P. Connor in the 10th, E. H. Hubbard in the 11th, Ellsworth Robinson in the 6th, Chas. Pickett in the 3d, James Galt (probably) in the 6th, W. D. Hopburn in the 8th. The only democratic contest was in the second, where Walsh of Clinton won.

NARROW ESCAPE OF A BROADHEAD WOMAN

Mrs. A. S. Moore Has Close Escape From Being Killed by a Train Yesterday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Broadhead, June 3.—While crossing the railroad bridge about a mile west of this city yesterday afternoon Mrs. A. S. Moore, wife of the vice-president of the Green County bank, had a narrow escape from being run over by the east bound passenger train on the St. Paul road, which is due at Broadhead at 4:14 p. m. Mrs. Moore and her sister Miss Jessie Sherman and another lady had been taking a walk through the country and had started to cross the bridge. Mrs. Moore's two companions were slightly ahead of her and reached the end of the bridge safely but Mrs. Moore did not notice the train until it was almost upon her. She managed to reach the end of the structure and stepped out upon a beam at the end just as the train whizzed by. She then either fainted or was jerked off by the train for she lost her balance and fell about ten feet striking on the rocks below and breaking three ribs and her collar bone.

The train was stopped as soon as possible and the injured woman placed upon it and taken to her home. Drs. Nuzum and Penber of this city happened to be upon the train and attended her.

LOST NEARLY NINE HUNDRED DOLLARS

But Pocketbook Was Found and Returned to Port Atkinson Man Before He Knew of His Loss.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Port Atkinson, June 3.—Eight hundred and eighty-five dollars in greenbacks is not picked up on the sidewalk every day. But this is exactly the amount Charles Griesmann found lying in an old wallet on South Third street this morning. Griesmann, being honest, made every effort to find the rightful owner who was William Berthard, a laborer in poor circumstances, the money being every cent he had in the world. The money was returned to him before he became aware of the loss.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Des Moines, Ia., June 3.—The yearly convention of the Old German Baptist Church of America, commonly called the Dunkards, opened a week's session today here. It is estimated that there are more than 10,000 delegates and visitors present, representing all parts of the United States. The program for the convention consists of several sermons by leading Dunkard ministers, both men and women; a grand song service; a public foot-washing by the members of the church; and the transaction of the usual amount of routine business.

The standing committee will be called upon to act in the matter of a complaint filed by the Nettie Greek branch of the church, at Hagerstown, Ind., against James M. Wyatt, a member of the church now residing in California, but formerly of Hagerstown. Wyatt was a banker at Hagerstown for many years and handled funds for many of the members of the church. The latter claim that he deceived them in regard to his business and that as a result they were heavy losers through the failure. Wyatt is believed to be wealthy and they seek to have him make good the losses. No Dunkard goes to law for any cause. His disputes are settled in the church, and if he has a claim against a brother or who disputes it, the matter is adjudicated by the officials of the church.

YACHTS START ON RACE TO BERMUDA

Fleet Leaves Marblehead This Morning on 675 Mile Race to Bermuda.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Boston, Mass., June 3.—A bunch of white-winged yachts, including some of the speediest craft of the kind to be found in this coast, started this morning in the annual sailing race to Bermuda. The start was made at 11 o'clock off Marblehead and was witnessed by a large crowd of yachting enthusiasts.

During the past few years the Marblehead-Bermuda yacht race has become an established fixture and each year has grown in favor among the yachtsmen. The distance, about 675 nautical miles, and the excellence of the course afford every advantage for an interesting deep sea contest.

From start to finish it will be a go-any-please contest. There are no restrictions in regard to the size of the crew or the sails used. The entries have been divided into four classes, according to the length of the craft. Among the entries is the fast schooner yacht Derwick, which won the race from New York to Bermuda last year, covering the distance in 3 days 18 hours and 25 minutes.

SOUTH HONORS MEMORY OF ITS FORMER PRESIDENT

Jefferson Davis, President Of The Confederacy, Was Born One Hundred Years Ago.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Richmond, Va., June 3.—The universal love and esteem in which the memory of Jefferson Davis is held was given expression throughout the South today by exercises commemorating the 100th anniversary of the great chieftain's birth. In Virginia, Georgia, and Alabama, in Florida and the Carolinas, in Kentucky, where Mr. Davis was born, and in Mississippi, where he spent the declining years of his life, notable public observances were held.

In this city, where, on February 18, 1861, he was inaugurated President of the Confederacy, the principal feature of the centennial celebration was the turning over to the city of Richmond of the handsome memorial erected by the Jefferson Davis Monument Association. This monument, which was unveiled at the Confederate reunion here a year ago, was paid for from a fund raised by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

In New Orleans, where Mr. Davis passed away on Dec. 6, 1889, the centennial anniversary was observed by the breaking of ground for the Davis monument to be erected by the Confederate veterans. From Maryland to Texas and from Florida to Missouri the centennial is being observed with special exercises in the public schools and under the auspices of historical and patriotic societies and veterans' organizations. In Louisiana, as usual, there was a state-wide observance of "Confederate Memorial Day." In Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and South Carolina the day was observed as a public holiday.

HORSE STOLEN FROM CHARLES HACKWELL

Twelve Miles East of City Last Night—Sheriff Fisher and Owner Are Attending Sales in Madison and Watertown.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

At an early hour last evening a horse belonging to Charles Hackwell who lives on the farm adjoining the Sam Godfrey place located between the Emerald Grove and middle roads about twelve miles east of Janesville, was stolen, and the thief went towards Milton for a short distance and then turned northward. When the thief was discovered this morning the owner was able to trace the animal quite a distance and not only located the telephone pole where it had been temporarily hitched, but also found a spot in the road where there had been a commotion and scuffle resulting from an attempt to hitch single an animal which had always been driven double. Subsequently the man appears to have been tied behind a cart and allowed to follow his captors. Sheriff I. U. Fisher drove ten miles into the country this morning and took the noon train for Madison, at the same time sending one of the interested parties to Watertown, there being horses stolen in both cities today. The missing steed is black in color, with two white hind feet and a star on its forehead; weight from 1200 to 1300 pounds; cold hard on the right shoulder; and had hair on the right shoulder. Its head back whenever anyone passes in front of it. Mr. Hackwell does not belong to the Anti-Horse Thief Society and has been unable to secure any assistance in that quarter.

STATE OFFICERS TO SEEK RENOMINATION

Reported That All Present Officials Will Again Be Candidates for Re-election.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., June 3.—All the state officers of Wisconsin are candidates for re-election, but the only formal announcement is the letter of Governor Davidson accepting the call of Milwaukee citizens that he stand for a renomination. The other state officers whose places are to be elements of the same primary election through which Governor Davidson will go are seeking second terms, but there is little indication that they are planning to make a community fight. Some of them have little opposition, there is no sign of any fight to be made against Attorney General Gilbert in the republican party and little indication that a rival candidate will appear against Secretary of State Brewster. It seems assured that opposition will develop of serious sort against State Treasurer J. D. Dahl and Commissioner of Insurance Hewitt. The grounds for the opposition to Commissioner Hewitt are not apparent unless he is being blamed for the new life insurance laws enacted by the last legislature. The opposition to Mr. Dahl is said to arise out of the fact that he has discharged two influential Germans from his department, I. P. Leach and A. H. Wagner of Milwaukee. It is said that Paul Bechtler of Milwaukee will be brought out as a candidate for the republican nomination for treasurer.

WANTS SECOND PLACE ON TICKET

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND OUT FOR REPUBLICAN NOMINATION.

HAS MANY STRONG POINTS

Oregon Chooses Gov. Chamberlain,
Democrat, as Senator—Arkansas
Instructs for W. J.
Bryan.

Washington, June 3.—After consideration of the suggestion of his western friends, John Hays Hammond has decided to enter the contest for the nomination for vice-president on the Republican ticket.

He is being urged by his friends on the ground that he is a Californian by birth, has a very intimate knowledge of all problems, political and economic, affecting the west, and is now a resident of Gloucester, Mass. Mr. Hammond was formerly connected with the Guggenheim Mining company, but has no connection with the smelting trust. Besides this he has the advantage, it is urged, of a strong following among business men and this it is considered may be an important feature of his candidacy. For the past year Mr. Hammond has been engaged independently in his professional work as mining engineer without any connection with mining companies.

John B. Montgomery of Colorado will leave for Chicago at once to establish headquarters in the Auditorium Annex in the interest of the candidacy of Mr. Hammond.

Chamberlain Wins in Oregon.
Portland, Ore., June 3.—Gov. George B. Chamberlain, Democrat, is the choice of the people of Oregon for the United States senatorship to succeed Charles W. Fulton, Republican, and a Republican legislature has been chosen to elect him. Chamberlain's majority over his opponent, Henry M. Calk, Republican, will exceed 1,000, it is believed.

Chamberlain's victory is in the nature of a personal triumph. Oregon normally is Republican, and in 1904 Roosevelt's plurality was 42,434. Gov. Chamberlain has twice been elected governor of this state.

Prohibition was an important feature in the election, the anti-saloon element making a surprising showing. From the returns at hand it is believed that 19 counties voted "dry." Equal suffrage was defeated by a heavy vote.

Arkansas for Bryan.
Little Rock, Ark., June 3.—The Democratic state convention which convened here at noon Tuesday elected delegates to the national convention, adopted a resolution binding the delegates to the support of William Jennings Bryan as the party's nominee, besides disposing of matters of a routine character. Wednesday the result of the primaries for state officers will be ratified, a platform adopted and a national committeeman elected.

UNCLE SAM IN PROTEST.
Complains of Excessive Express Rates on Naval Stores.

Washington, June 3.—A complaint, unique in the annals of the interstate commerce commission, was filed Tuesday. It is entitled "The United States against the Adams Express company and the Northern Pacific Express company."

The complaint is entered by Secretary Metcalf in his official capacity as secretary of the navy and is a protest against what is termed the excessive, unreasonable and unjust charges on naval stores between Washington and Bremerton, Wash. It appears that certain naval supplies were shipped by express from Washington to Bremerton, on which the charge was $11.75 per hundred pounds. The complaint alleges that the charge should have been not more than $10.85 per hundred pounds, and reparation is demanded to the amount of $14.39 on the shipment.

ALLISON DEFEATS CUMMINS.

Des Moines, Ia., June 3.—Returns from over 800 precincts indicate that Senator Allison has defeated Gov. Cummins in the fight for the Republican senatorial nomination, but that the result will be close. It may take an official count to determine the result.

The victory of Allison may carry with it a victory also for Carroll for governor over Garst, although the returns on the Republican gubernatorial nomination are altogether incomplete.

YAQUIS MAY NOT GIVE IN GOVERNMENT OF MEXICO EX-PECTS MORE FIGHTING.

Is Determined to Have Peace If It Has to Exterminate the Indians Entirely.

Mexico City, June 3.—As stated in those dispatches some days ago, the Mexican government maintains that any story that peace between the Yaqui Indians and the federal government has been declared or is assured is premature.

On the contrary, the war department is making every preparation to resume the campaign against the Indians should they fail to make the terms as outlined by the military commanders. June 15 is the date set when the final decision will be rendered as to whether absolute peace or the continuation of a more vigorous campaign will ensue.

The war department is pessimistic as to the future. The Yaqui chief, Dule, it is thought, will be unable to control many petty chiefs, who seem determined to continue the struggle. The Yaquis seem to believe the government is incapable of carrying on the war further because of past peace proposals and hence have made the following hard terms to the proposed surrender:

"That the Indians should be put in immediate and complete possession of the Yaqui country; that they be allowed to name their own authorities; that no taxes should be levied upon them; that the government troops should immediately evacuate the territory, and that no man foreign to the tribes should be allowed to cross the boundary marking the Yaqui's district without their consent."

To these proposals the government has no idea of assenting. While the government believes that peace in the region is not far distant, it is considered that more fighting will yet have to be waged to gain the desired end. If necessary, the war department is prepared to wage a war of extermination against the Indians until such time as the region which they inhabit shall be as safe as any other part of the republic.

Must Pay 60 Per Cent. Duty on $340,
000 Pearl Necklace.

New York, June 3.—Customs duties of 60 per cent. must be paid on the $340,000 pearl necklace imported from France by Mrs. William B. Leeds, under a decision rendered by Judge Lacombe in the United States court Tuesday. This decision sustained the ruling made by the collector of the port, which subsequently was set aside by the board of general appraisers. It was the result of an appeal taken by the government from the finding of the general board.

After the necklace was purchased in Paris the pearls were separated and brought to this country as individual gems in the belief that they would be admitted upon the payment of ten per cent. duty, which the law provides for individual pearls. The collector of the port ruled, however, that as the pearls had been used as a necklace, and were intended to be used in that form again, the full duty of 60 per cent. should be levied.

MISSISSIPPI ON RAMPAGE.

It is estimated that 500 persons have been compelled to abandon their homes and seek shelter of the table lands.

St. Louis, June 3.—At West Quincy, Ill., the river is reported to be three miles wide and incalculable damage has been done. A special police patrol has been sent from Quincy to protect property. Every available boat has been pressed into service to carry families from the flooded lands to elevated spots. So far as known no lives have been lost.

Suicide of an Oiler Convert.
Chicago, June 3.—In strict conformity with his acceptance of the Oiler theory that after a man has reached the age of 70 he has outlived his usefulness, Andrew Heyna, formerly private secretary to Justice of the Supreme Court John J. Freeman of New York, committed suicide Tuesday in his small confectionery and book store at 6120 Halsted street. It is believed from letters he left that the day of his suicide was his seventieth birthday.

DOC DE CHAULNES DIED AT PRAYER

MR. SHONTS DENIES STORIES THAT HE WAS DRUG FIEND.

INFAMOUS LIBEL, HE SAYS

Nobleman Was Kneeling by His Wife When Stricken—Duchess Driven Nearly Insane by Grief.

New York, June 3.—On his return from Paris Tuesday Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough Metropolitan company, declared that the reports that the death of his son-in-law, Duke de Chaulnes, was due to indulgence in opiate were infamous libels.

Mr. Shonts said that the duke's death was caused by heart disease and that he was not addicted to the use of drugs.

"The duke and my daughter were kneeling at their bedside in prayer," said Mr. Shonts, "when the stroke came upon him that carried him off before medical aid could be summoned."

True Story of Death.
"The memory of the duke has been grossly maligned, and outrageous reports were printed about the manner and cause of his death. The facts are these: On the afternoon of the day on which he died, the duke and my daughter were out riding. They dined together and then retired to their apartment early."

"They were kneeling close together and the duke held one arm about his wife's shoulders. Suddenly he lurched forward and then tumbled unconscious at my daughter's feet. He was a big man and she a slight girl, but she lifted him bodily on the bed and screamed for aid. He was dead before anything could be done for him."

Widow Nearly Went Insane.
"Upon my arrival in Paris I found my daughter in an alarming condition. Until two weeks ago we feared that her reason had gone and would never return. It is just two weeks ago Sunday when the turn for the better came."

"My wife and one of my daughters will remain with the duchess throughout the summer. The relatives of the duke have been more than kind to my daughter. They have vied with one another in trying to do for her. Duchess d'Uzes was more than a sister to her; so that she will be among sympathetic friends while she remains in France."

DEATH PACT CARRIED OUT.
Married Woman and Man Die Because of Hopeless Love.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 3.—Sebastian Glynn, a clerk in a wholesale liquor house in this city, and Mrs. Anna Karow, a married woman, whose husband had deserted her, entered into a death pact Tuesday. Both were found dead in the home of the woman at Kingston, near here. They had made all preparations for the tragedy, being dressed in holiday attire and wearing buttonhole bouquets. Both left letters saying they loved each other, but owing to the fact that the husband of the woman was still alive they realized they could not get married, and they concluded to give up life. The man shot the woman first and then turned the revolver upon himself.

Descendant of Boone Dies.
St. Joseph, Mo., June 3.—After several weeks' illness, Capt. James L. Cox, 82 years old, a veteran of the confederate army, died Tuesday as a result of gangrene poisoning contracted by trimming a tree mull. Capt. Cox made several trips to California during the gold fever in 1849, and built the first car system in St. Joseph. Before the war he was a wealthy land and slave owner. His maternal grandmother was a daughter of Daniel Boone.

Hawaiian Prince Is Dead.
San Francisco, June 3.—Prince David Kalaninuihale of Hawaii, brother of Hawaiian Delegate "Prince" Kapiolani and nephew of former Queen Liliuokalani, died of pneumonia at the Hotel Stewart in this city Tuesday evening.

Choice of Color.
We used to complain that there was too little color in dress. The general effect of a crowd is still black or gray, perhaps because of the masculine element. Yet in spite of this one feels now that there is too much color about—color wrongly used, wrongly displayed, crudely plastered onto the wrong objects and the wrong people.—The Lady.

On Keeping Happy.
There is no doubt some selfish satisfaction in yielding to melancholy, and fancying that we are victims of fate; in brooding over grievances, especially if more or less imaginary. To be bright and cheerful often requires an effort; and in this respect, as in others, we require to watch over and manage ourselves, almost as if we were somebody else.—Sir John Lubbock.

RAIN STOPS BIG BALLOON

CAPT. DUMBAUGH, HOWEVER,
MAKES SPEED RECORD.

Travels More Than 800 Miles in 11
Hours in Charles A. Coey's
Airship.

Watertown, N. D., June 3.—Compelled to alight because of rain, the Chicago balloon, owned by Charles A. Coey and driven by Capt. C. L. Dumbaugh and Charles Leichter, which left Quincy, Ill., Monday night at five o'clock, landed Tuesday morning at six o'clock in the country eight miles south of Clear Lake, S. D., covering over 800 miles in 11 hours and securing the world's speed record.

Capt. Dumbaugh was shortly disappointed in not breaking the long distance record, and at his failure to win the Latham cup. He said that had he not encountered rain he would have easily outdistanced all previous records. Leaving Quincy, the aeronauts went west to Kirksville, Mo., and from there due north. After leaving Kirksville neither man in the balloon spoke until after alighting. When struck by the storm Capt. Dumbaugh made an ascent of 5,500 feet, but could not avoid it. He then dropped 1,500 feet in one minute.

Mr. Leichter left Clear Lake Tuesday for Chicago, Capt. Dumbaugh remaining behind to pack the balloon ready for the return by rail. He said he would make another effort to win the Latham cup.

Measuring distances as the crowd flew, Capt. Dumbaugh estimates that his balloon covered over 800 miles in exactly 11 hours, or an average of 73 miles an hour. The aeronaut says that the actual distance was more than 800 miles and that it must have maintained a speed of nearly 80 miles an hour.

Headed Capt. Dumbaugh and Charles Leichter, the only occupant of the balloon was a small terrier dog, which made the entire flight without showing the slightest sign of experiencing an unusual sensation.

GIFT FOR RETIRING MAYOR.

St. Paul Business Men Present $11,000 to Robert A. Smith.

St. Paul, Minn., June 3.—A few minutes after Robert A. Smith had retired from the office of mayor of St. Paul Tuesday he was handed an envelope containing a draft for $11,000. This amount had been contributed by 81 business men of St. Paul as an appreciation of the venerable ex-mayor's services to the city.

Mr. Smith is 81 years of age and has an office-holding record of 59 years in this county, 15 years of which, with the exception of one term, was spent in the mayor's office. At one time he was a very wealthy man, but the failure of a bank of which he was an officer led him to voluntarily dispose of all his property to make the loss to depositors as small as possible. He would have left the mayor's office penniless had it not been for the contribution.

PHYSICIANS FOR VIVISECTION.

American Medical Association to Fight Its Opponents.

Chicago, June 3.—All of the forces of the American Medical association, now in session here, with its 21,000 members, are to be ranged in battle array against the wave of anti-vivisection sentiment that is spreading throughout the country.

The house of delegates, the business body of the association, which is holding its convention this week, passed resolutions favoring thorough preparation for bringing every ounce of strength securable in support of "animal experimentation."

Nominee for Judge Indicted.
Memphis, Tenn., June 3.—Two indictments, one charging embezzlement and the other larceny and obtaining money by false pretenses, were returned Tuesday against Henry Wellsbach, a former Chicago attorney and at present Republican nominee for the office of judge of the supreme court of this state. He acted as promoter and secretary-treasurer of the Block Mercantile company of this city which recently failed.

Moth a Hypnotist.
"Did you ever know," said the hypnotist, as he played with a curious glittering hypnotizing machine of crystal and silver, "did you ever know that hypnotism is practiced among insects?"

"Well, it is a fact. A queen bee can hypnotize her whole hive whenever she wants to. She makes a curious humming sound, and within a moment or two every bee in the colony falls into a hypnotic trance."

"The death's head hawk moth is also a hypnotist of great power. This creature, indeed, makes its living out of hypnotism. Entering a hive, it makes a sound not unlike the queen bee's note, and the bees immediately sinking into slumber, the moth proceeds to plunder at its leisure."

PROMISES OF ELECTRICAL ERA.

Advancement That Will Open Nature's Heart to Man.

Fire made man master of the molecule; electricity makes him master of the atom and opens nature's heart. Fire melted sand to glass and prepared the path for a telescope for Galileo, a camera for Daguerre, a microscope for Pasteur, engines for Watt, Stephenson, Parsons and De Laval; all the streams of lead and iron, copper and zinc ever smelted from their ores, all the acids, salts and alcohols. But all these electricity can do, do it better than flame, and greater works than these, tasks beyond the power of fire. The electrical era is only dawning. There are motors and dynamos, heaters and lamps, chemical dividers and batteries. The larger the field of electricity the cheaper it will become and the bigger will be the demand.

When there are not only telephones in every house, but sewing machine motors, fans, smoothing irons, chafing dishes and the like, electricity will begin to mean as much for man to-day as, long ago, did the first kindling of fire with slowly won arts of furnace and lamp, oven and smelter, crucible and still. Thus saith a prophet of electricity.

You Must Irrigate Your Neighborhood.

By Herbert Kaufman.

Half a century ago there were ten million acres of land within a thousand miles of Chicago upon which not even a blade of grass would grow. Today upon these very deserts are wonderful orchards and tremendous wheatfields. The soil itself was full of possibilities. What the land needed was water. In time there came farmers who knew that they could not expect the streams to come to them, and so they dug ditches and led the water to their properties from the surrounding rivers and lakes; they tilled the earth with their brains as well as their plows—they became rich by understanding how to irrigate.

Advertising has made thousands of men rich just because they recognized the possibilities of utilizing the newspapers to bring streams of buyers into neighborhoods that could be made busy locations by irrigation—by drawing people from other sections.

The successful retailer is the man who keeps the stream of purchasers coming his way. It isn't the spot itself that makes the store pay—it's the man who makes the spot pay; who knows how to draw the crowds. Centers of trade are not selected by the public—they are created by the force which controls the public—the newspapers.

New neighborhoods for business are being constantly built up by men who have located themselves in streets which they have changed from deserted by-ways into teeming, jostling thoroughfares through advertising irrigation.

The storekeeper who whines that his neighborhood holds him back is squinting at the truth—he is hurting the neighborhood.

If it lacks streams of buyers he can easily enough secure them by reaching out through the columns of the daily and inducing people from other sections to come to him. Every time he influences a customer of a competitor he is not only irrigating his own field but is drying out the streams upon which a non-advertising merchant depends for existence. Men and women who live next door to a shop that does not plead for their custom will eventually be drawn to an establishment miles away because they have been made to believe in some advantage to be gained thereby.

The circulation of every daily is nothing less than a reservoir of buyers from which shoppers stream in the direction that promises the most value for the least money.

The magic development of the desert lands has its parallel in merchandising of men who consider the newspaper an irrigating power which can make two customers grow where one grew before.

TOM JOHNSON'S STREET RAILWAY COLLAPSE

For seven years Tom Johnson stood upon the public platforms of Cleveland and guaranteed to the people that when he secured the Cleveland property he would carry them all over the city for 3 cents and would give them the free universal transfers given by the Cleveland Electric, and that he would give them a very much superior service than that given by the Cleveland Electric.

Mr. Johnson has had this railroad now nearly four weeks and in no case has he redeemed a single promise made in these various campaigns of his, or made to the people just previous to the stealing of this property.

He promised 3-cent fare. He is giving 3, 5, 6 and 11-cent fare. He promised free universal transfers. He is selling a few transfers at 1 cent apiece, and he has eliminated over twenty-five transfer points which were given to the people by the Cleveland Electric.

He promised good service. There has never been a time in the history of Cleveland when the service given by a Cleveland street railway company has been so outrageous as the service given since Tom L. Johnson took over the Cleveland Electric.

He promised that Cleveland's full contract rights, which means 3-cent fare and universal transfers and when he refused to give it and the village took the matter to the courts and the courts said he must, he reduced the service from ten minutes, compelling thousands of people to walk or ride on the top of his cars, Finance, Cleveland.

This is the Tom Johnson who turned the state of Ohio over to democracy, and who was responsible for the recent street-car strike in Cleveland. He is a product of the reform era through which the country is passing, and a fair specimen.

His appeals for cheap fare captured that large audience familiarly known as "Ged's patient poor" and he had a liberal following. The city of Cleveland is paying today for fanaticism, and Tom Johnson has shrunk several points in stature.

ROCK COUNTY'S CANDIDATE

Congress has adjourned, and the country is on the eve of a campaign which will be fairly launched when the national conventions adjourn, and pushed with vigor until the ballots are cast in November.

It is not an off year, for a president is to be elected, and this always lends enthusiasm to a campaign and brings out the voting strength of all parties.

That it will be a republican year is not a question of reasonable doubt, for the democratic party is so largely paralyzed today that it is no longer a dangerous competitor.

While the next congress will be a republican congress it is important to have every republican member loyal to his party, and to the constituency which honored him with office.

The first congressional district is to elect a man to succeed the Hon. H. A. Cooper of Racine, who has represented the district for the past 15 years, which by the way, is 12 years longer than he thought would be necessary to gratify ambition; when first elected, but congressmen seldom die, and never resign, and so after a dozen years of patient waiting, the party has united on a candidate to contest the honors so long enjoyed by Mr. Cooper.

This man is Thos. S. Nolan of Janesville, a life-long resident and a republican of the old school type, whose loyalty is never questioned.

Mr. Nolan has long been a prominent member of the Rock county bar. He combines with a good legal mind, a genial personality which has won for him a host of friends who will be pleased to honor him with their support.

Had Mr. Nolan been in the house during the closing days of the last congress, the district would have been represented by a man in harmony with public sentiment on the currency bill, for he is neither a democratic sympathizer nor blind idolater.

The first congressional district is a strong republican district and has a right to be represented by a man whose loyalty to party is beyond question. The currency bill was a party measure in congress, but it was not a party measure before the country, for businessmen and bankers, of all political creeds, favored it and were urgent in demands that something be done.

Mr. Nolan's candidacy is well received throughout the district. Encouraging reports come from all the counties represented, and the outlook for his campaign is bright.

He is well qualified in every way, to represent the people, and his success should not be a matter of doubt.

AN UNUSUAL MAN.

This is about a man who tried to do right and was true to his convictions. Incidentally he made and lost millions.

A few days ago Ferdinand Schumacher of Canton, O., passed away. He was the pioneer in the breakfast food industry in the United States. Fifty-two years ago Mr. Schumacher came to Akron from Germany. He began to prepare oats for the table by shelling, cutting and cooking them. Inside of twenty years he had four big mills working night and day to supply the demand for his cereals.

Other companies imitated Schumacher, and the industry grew until it was absorbed by the trust.

Mr. Schumacher did not understand the ins and outs of "high finance" and in 1890, after making an assignment, he left the American Cereal company. Though at one time a millionaire, he died with nothing. His friends say he was manipulated out of his money.

Anyway, the man himself, and not his millions, is the important consideration.

Schumacher was one of the original prohibitionists of the country, and, what is more, he practiced what he believed.

An instance:

When his immense cereal mills at Akron burned in 1880, large quantities of grain in his elevators became wet and spoiled. The broker wanted to purchase the damaged grain for distilling purposes. Mr. Schumacher refused to sell the grain, preferring to lose rather than have the stuff made into intoxicants.

Quisling?

Possibly. But it proves the stamp of the man. What he believed he believed with all his might, and he stood ready to suffer for the cause he had espoused.

Another instance:

Mr. Schumacher was the promoter of a town company at Mansfield, Ill., in which he invested nearly $1,000,000. He attempted to make the place a model town and a total abstinence community. The venture failed.

Nevertheless the man did his best. He showed his good intentions. He carried his philanthropic desire to the verge.

He made no pretenses. He put his hand to the plow. He stood four square to all the winds that blow. You may not agree with his beliefs. You may call him a crank. But you must respect him as you must respect every man who makes good in a righteous cause.

Mon like Ferdinand Schumacher are rarer than we could wish.

THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE AND LOCAL OPTION

"Prohibitionists have never accomplished as much as the Anti-Saloon League," began the speaker as he launched upon an unbridled effort in the anti-war war. "And that league has not been given the support of the president or of very many governors," he continued.

"Its success is due to the two principles—federation and the governmental idea of the majority rule. It has been unpartisan, and has appealed to every good Protestant, every Catholic, in fact, every citizen who desires to uplift the state and the city."

"It backs the principle of local option, and standing upon this foundation, it points right back to the biblical principle of freedom of man."

"We can say that the Anti-Saloon League upholds the principle of our government upon which all legislation depends—the majority rule. We want the saloon abolished, and by the grace of God we will have it abolished."

"If I had the power to thrust prohibition on a community," he explained, "I would not do it unless I knew the community wished it, and just so long as the Anti-Saloon League keeps local option as the goal of its ambition, it can never be said that it is open to political compromise."

Bishop James W. Bashford, at the Methodist General Conference.

This sentiment from a Methodist bishop will be a surprise to the brethren who have advocated prohibition, and criticized men who refused to vote as they prayed. The bishop has discovered that local option represents practical prohibition and that nothing but public sentiment enforces law on moral questions.

The cotton mills of New England are again busy and some 35,000 idle employees have been put to work on full time. Business is slowly improving, and the outlook for a renewal of good times is promising.

GEORGE FINNE CONVICTED.

Slayer of Laporte Man Found Guilty of Manslaughter.

Laporte, Ind., June 3.—After being out four hours a jury Tuesday night in the Laporte circuit court found George Finne guilty of manslaughter. Finne, who is 18 years old, shot his neighbor, George Pribe, as the latter was coming from his own chicken coop one night. Finne's story was that he did not recognize Pribe but thought he was a burglar. He said he was lighting a match to see who it was when the gun was accidentally discharged. A deathbed statement made by Pribe, in which he claimed Finne said, "George, I'm going to shoot you," did much to convict Finne.

Two Murdered by Moros.

Manila, June 3.—News that Harry Ickis, a government mining expert of Creston, Ia., and companion were killed by Moros on April 1, while asleep in a hut, has just been received here. Ickis was engaged in geological survey work and was accompanied by one guard.

Commendable.

This is about a man who tried to do right and was true to his convictions. Incidentally he made and lost millions.

A few days ago Ferdinand Schumacher of Canton, O., passed away. He was the pioneer in the breakfast food industry in the United States. Fifty-two years ago Mr. Schumacher came to Akron from Germany. He began to prepare oats for the table by shelling, cutting and cooking them. Inside of twenty years he had four big mills working night and day to supply the demand for his cereals.

Other companies imitated Schumacher, and the industry grew until it was absorbed by the trust.

Mr. Schumacher did not understand the ins and outs of "high finance" and in 1890, after making an assignment, he left the American Cereal company. Though at one time a millionaire, he died with nothing. His friends say he was manipulated out of his money.

Anyway, the man himself, and not his millions, is the important consideration.

Schumacher was one of the original prohibitionists of the country, and, what is more, he practiced what he believed.

An instance:

When his immense cereal mills at Akron burned in 1880, large quantities of grain in his elevators became wet and spoiled. The broker wanted to purchase the damaged grain for distilling purposes. Mr. Schumacher refused to sell the grain, preferring to lose rather than have the stuff made into intoxicants.

Quisling?

Possibly. But it proves the stamp of the man. What he believed he believed with all his might, and he stood ready to suffer for the cause he had espoused.

Another instance:

Mr. Schumacher was the promoter of a town company at Mansfield, Ill., in which he invested nearly $1,000,000. He attempted to make the place a model town and a total abstinence community. The venture failed.

Nevertheless the man did his best. He showed his good intentions. He carried his philanthropic desire to the verge.

He made no pretenses. He put his hand to the plow. He stood four square to all the winds that blow. You may not agree with his beliefs. You may call him a crank. But you must respect him as you must respect every man who makes good in a righteous cause.

Mon like Ferdinand Schumacher are rarer than we could wish.

THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE AND LOCAL OPTION

"Prohibitionists have never accomplished as much as the Anti-Saloon League," began the speaker as he launched upon an unbridled effort in the anti-war war. "And that league has not been given the support of the president or of very many governors," he continued.

"Its success is due to the two principles—federation and the governmental idea of the majority rule. It has been unpartisan, and has appealed to every good Protestant, every Catholic, in fact, every citizen who desires to uplift the state and the city."

"It backs the principle of local option, and standing upon this foundation, it points right back to the biblical principle of freedom of man."

"We can say that the Anti-Saloon League upholds the principle of our government upon which all legislation depends—the majority rule. We want the saloon abolished, and by the grace of God we will have it abolished."

"If I had the power to thrust prohibition on a community," he explained, "I would not do it unless I knew the community wished it, and just so long as the Anti-Saloon League keeps local option as the goal of its ambition, it can never be said that it is open to political compromise."

Bishop James W. Bashford, at the Methodist General Conference.

This sentiment from a Methodist bishop will be a surprise to the brethren who have advocated prohibition, and criticized men who refused to vote as they prayed. The bishop has discovered that local option represents practical prohibition and that nothing but public sentiment enforces law on moral questions.

The cotton mills of New England are again busy and some 35,000 idle employees have been put to work on full time. Business is slowly improving, and the outlook for a renewal of good times is promising.

GEORGE FINNE CONVICTED.

Slayer of Laporte Man Found Guilty of Manslaughter.

Laporte, Ind., June 3.—After being out four hours a jury Tuesday night in the Laporte circuit court found George Finne guilty of manslaughter. Finne, who is 18 years old, shot his neighbor, George Pribe, as the latter was coming from his own chicken coop one night. Finne's story was that he did not recognize Pribe but thought he was a burglar. He said he was lighting a match to see who it was when the gun was accidentally discharged. A deathbed statement made by Pribe, in which he claimed Finne said, "George, I'm going to shoot you," did much to convict Finne.

Two Murdered by Moros.

Manila, June 3.—News that Harry Ickis, a government mining expert of Creston, Ia., and companion were killed by Moros on April 1, while asleep in a hut, has just been received here. Ickis was engaged in geological survey work and was accompanied by one guard.

Commendable.

We are opposed to suicide on general principles, but the young man who got into a jealous rage and killed himself rather than his sweetheart furnishes an example which we commend to all lovers with homicidal tendencies.

Only Human Nature.

WEATHER REPORT OF WEEK JUST CLOSED

Government Experts Send Out Weekly Statement of Conditions in the State.

The weather for the week ending June 1, 1908, was generally cloudy, with frequent showers and moderate temperature. There were severe thunderstorms on May 29th in the western and southwestern portions of the state. What was reported as one of the worst rain and hail storms of the present season, occurred about 3 p. m. that day at La Crosse. Nineteenths of an inch of rain fell in 15 minutes and 1.42 inches fell during the afternoon. Considerable damage was done to buildings by the heavy rainfall, high winds and lightning. On the same afternoon severe thunderstorms occurred in the region north of La Crosse and in Iowa county. Many bridges were washed out and the telegraph and telephone services were interrupted.

The total precipitation for the week was considerably above the normal, except in a small section from Green Bay westward to about the center of the state. As the rainfall during the preceding week was generally heavy except along the Lake Michigan shores, the soil is thoroughly saturated with water and much of the lowland is flooded.

The temperatures remained moderate until Sunday, the 31st, when the weather cleared and became much cooler. The average temperature for the week was practically normal in all sections of the state. There was some light frost on the lowlands on Monday morning.

FAKE PREVENTATIVE OF GAS EXPLOSIONS

Is Exposed by Prof. John Arbuthnot—Stuffed Sold by at Least One Grocery Only Colored Salt.

With regard to a new fraud on the credulous public a mixture purporting to be a preventive of gas explosions, and known as "ELECTRIC CARBON," a safeguard against explosions, and placed on sale, at least one local establishment by a personage agent representing a company which has conveniently forgotten to include its address in the advertising literature, John Arbuthnot, instructor in physics and chemistry at the high school has submitted the following very interesting communication:

Editor of Gazette: A few days ago a local grocer handed me a package of a chemical labeled "ELECTRIC CARBON—GUARANTEED TO PREVENT EXPLOSIONS OF GASOLINE AND KEROSENE." An analysis of the compound showed it to be composed of common salt, colored. The package contained about one-fourth of a pound and was marked to retail at 25 cents.

Now as it is possible that some one might rely on it to prevent explosions a word of warning might be in order. An explosion will occur when the vapor of gasoline or kerosene is mixed with a large amount of air and a fire brought in contact with the mixture. The only way to prevent explosions would be to prevent evaporation and "ELECTRIC CARBON" has no value for this purpose, nor would anything answer the purpose. The fraudulent nature of the compound is shown by the fact that it is likewise recommended for use in gasoline engines where the gasoline vapor must explode if the engine runs.

The grocer refused to sell the article when he became suspicious and is anxious to have the fraud exposed. It is only because other people may have been deceived by the oily tongue of a stranger that I take the space to refer to it.

JOHN ARBUTHNOT.

HIAWATHA COMPANY SHIP MANY ORDERS

Two Cars Go to Chihuahua, Mexico, and Others to Montreal and Seattle.

Janesville's famous Hiawatha Springs waters will soon be found in all parts of the United States and Canada. Louis M. Park of Minneapolis, one of the officials of the recently organized company, was in the city yesterday for a few hours on business for Chicago. He expressed himself as pleased with the manner in which the waters are being shipped out and expected several large shipments within the immediate future. Two cars were recently sent to Chihuahua, Mexico, one goes to Montreal, Canada, and one to Seattle. While the company has no regular offices in the city at present it is understood that they will open one in the Jackson block in the immediate future. The project of erecting the costly building on the grounds owned by the company up the river has been temporarily delayed by lack of transportation facilities. Arrangements had been about completed to throw a bridge across the river to give access from the North-Western line, but this was postponed until it was found what was to be done relative to the construction of an interurban from Janesville to Madison. Should the line now being projected run in the vicinity of the springs the transportation question will be solved and a handsome building for bottling works erected, according to plans published in the Gazette several months ago. Mr. Park left for Chicago this morning, but expects to return to Janesville next week.

One View of Woman.

Woman loves a clear, rosy complexion. Burdock Blood Purifiers purifies the blood, clears the skin, restores ruddy, sound health.

Torturing eczema spreads its burning area every day. Don't Ointment quickly stops its spreading. Instantly relieves the itching, cures it permanently. At any drug store.

Settled the Whole Question.

Rev. William Carter discussed at a dinner in New York his successful experiment of conducting services in the Belasco theater. "One of my theater auditors," he said, "was a Scot from Peebles. This Scot told me that the sight of a clergyman in a theater reminded him of an experience he once had in London. He went to a melodrama at Drury Lane. A man in front of him looked familiar. To his surprise he recognized in this man his minister at Peebles. He leaned forward and laid his hand on the minister's black coat. 'Oh, Dr. Saunders McIntosh,' he whispered, 'what was the people in the hall kirk say if I told them I saw you here?' 'Deed, they wadna believe ye,' Dr. Saunders answered quickly, 'and ye needna tell them.'"

CROOKS HEADED FOR JANESVILLE

LEFT BELOIT ON THREE O'CLOCK CAR TODAY.

ARRESTED IN LINE CITY

Taken in Custody There This Morning—Were Identified as Participants in Recent Hold-up.

About two weeks ago while coming from St. Joe, Michigan, a contractor by the name of W. G. Salter got into a game of cards with three strangers. Later he went into the wash room of the car where three men followed him. One held him while the other gagged him and a third took a $150 diamond ring which the contractor had.

This morning while standing in Illinois House in Beloit Mr. Salter saw one of the men with whom he had played cards and followed him. The man evidently saw Salter for he circled around to catch a train on the St. Paul road which was just leaving. Mr. Salter was unable to catch the train and returned to town. While standing on the corner of State street he saw the other two men who had robbed him. Calling an officer he had them arrested. They were taken to the police station and searched. The diamond was found upon them and on payment of $150 for the cost of releasing it they were released. The two men said they were going to take the three o'clock train for Janesville.

From letters which were found upon them it was thought that they were mixed up in some deal to sell a patented mine out west. Several of their letters to millionaires were found and also one or two answers from the private secretaries of the men to whom they had written.

The settlement after which the two men were allowed to go was arranged by an attorney who happened to be in the Illinois house at the time. They were set free on account of the difficulty of identifying the men and the extradition delays.

The men are both well dressed and fine appearing.

RECEIVES DIRECTORY FOR THE YEAR 1857

J. H. Balch, Formerly of This City, Sends Back an Old Rock County Directory.

Mr. J. H. Balch has recently received from J. H. Balch an old Rock county gazetteer and directory for the years 1857 and 1858. Mr. Balch was at one time register of deeds in Rock county and later ran an abstract office. After that he entered the Rock County National Bank where he remained about seventeen years, moving to Los Angeles about two years ago.

The directory is a small book printed in Beloit by H. E. Hale & Co. at the Journal office. The Beloit directory is given first, followed by the Janesville directory after which is given a list of the farmers in the county. The Beloit City is described as having about 10,000 population and with excellent railroad connections. It is said to have been a live business town and very good hotel facilities and for that reason well traveled. The Lytle House is mentioned as the largest and best hotel west of Chicago.

PRETTY WEDDING TODAY OF AN OSHKOSH COUPLE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Oshkosh, Wis., June 3.—One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place this afternoon at one o'clock at the residence of Mayor John Handberg, the principals being Miss Ethel Handberg of Oshkosh and Mr. Sterling Steele of Fond du Lac. The residence was beautifully decorated and the wedding appointments were elaborate in all details. Following the wedding dinner the young couple left on a wedding trip. They will make their home on Fond du Lac where the groom is engaged in the insurance business.

On Auto Trip to Racine: William McNell, assistant manager of the McNell Mycar, and a party which included William Taylor and Bert Burton departed this afternoon on an automobile trip to Racine, where the Elks state convention is in progress. Inconstancy of Human Friendship: "Aha, my old friend George!" exclaimed W. W. Fleckner of Beloit as he stepped blithely into the police station last evening. "Old friend" was busy at the telephone but he took time out to wheel about and give the terse order to Officer Brown: "Throw that fellow in!" As the iron wheel rolled on Mr. Fleckner he remarked with much bitterness: "This pretty state of affairs when one calls to see a friend and gets put in a cell for it." Chief Amelich at one time befriended Fleckner by advancing him the sum of fifty cents on a pair of cuff-buttons. Recently the man was jailed for drunkenness and a man who desired to have his services in the country authorized the chief to pay his fine and get him out there. Fleckner, upon securing his liberty, not only failed to keep his promise but headed for the first gin-mill in sight.

CONSTABLE STOPPED SELLING OF PAPERS

Broadhead Official Objects to Hearing Newspapers Sold in City Style in His Village.

H. W. Friend, the leather-junged news vendor, who has been selling Gazettes in the streets of Janesville for the past week, went to Broadhead last evening to continue his novel method of placing his wares before the public. He had been calling his papers for but a few moments when a constable approached and warned him that he was violating a city ordinance in creating a disturbance on the streets. Mr. Friend tried to expostulate, but was informed that papers were not allowed sold in that manner in Broadhead and he must stop. Friend did not understand the reason until he was told he could be heard for blocks and that his calling had brought so many people to the downtown district the constable feared a riot and invoked the aid of the ordinance to prevent a stampede for papers by removing the yell. Mr. Friend went to Albany late this afternoon, where he understands there are no ordinances as to selling papers.

NEW BUILDING WILL BE MOST COMPLETE

Structure at School for Blind to Include Swimming Tank in Basement.

Edwin Dumbauld, who has secured the contract for constructing the new Music building at the State Institute for the blind, expects to begin work on the building next week with twenty or thirty workmen. The contract was let for ten thousand dollars and must be completed by November first. It will be a thirty-four-by-seventy-foot structure of white brick, with Joliet stone trimmings. Two stories and a basement will be built. The basement will contain a swimming tank 26 by 25 feet, shower baths and dressing rooms for both sexes. It is concrete brick lined and finished in white enamel. On the first floor will be an orchestra room, 20 by 32, two teachers' rooms and eight practice rooms. On the second floor are eight dining rooms, a regular room 20 by 36 and a store room the same size. The entire building is to have maple floors. Mr. Dumbauld's bid was ten thousand dollars, which was the lowest, and he was awarded the contract by the state board of control at their meeting in Madison yesterday.

BLOOD POISON TREACHEROUS-DANGEROUS

Contagious Blood Poison is the most treacherous of all diseases. It has its victims in its power almost before they realize its presence; because its first symptom, which is usually a little sore or pimple, is so insignificant that it does not cause alarm, or even excite suspicion. But notwithstanding the outward symptoms are not manifested in the beginning, this insidious poison is at work on the blood, and in a short time the patients find themselves diseased from head to foot.

The mouth and throat ulcerate, the hair begins to come out, a rash breaks out on the body, copper-colored spots, and even sores and ulcers appear on the flesh. Unless the poison is driven from the blood it affects the bones, and literally eats out the life of the sufferer.

There is scarcely any limit to the evil powers of Contagious Blood Poison. It is often transmitted to others by a friendly handshake or from the use of the toilet articles of an infected person. And if the virus is allowed to remain in the circulation, its blighting influence will be handed down to offspring to ruin their innocent lives.

Contagious Blood Poison is too dangerous to trifle with. No time should be lost in ridding the blood of this insidious poison; and in no disease is it more important that the proper remedy be used. Medicines which merely check the symptoms for a time and leave the real cause smoldering in the system, have brought misery and despair to thousands. Faithfully the sufferers took such treatment, and when all outward signs had disappeared left off its use, only to find that the virus had been shut up in the blood, awaiting a favorable opportunity to break out again.

S. S. S. goes down into the circulation, and removes every particle of the poison from the blood, makes this vital fluid pure and healthy, and does not leave the slightest trace of the poison for future outbreaks.

S. S. S. is made entirely of roots and herbs of the forests and fields. It does not contain the least particle of mineral in any form to injure the delicate parts of the system, impair the digestion or corrode and irritate the membranous tissue or lining of the stomach and bowels.

If you are suffering with Contagious Blood Poison, S. S. S. will cure you, because it will purify your blood, and destroy every vestige of the taint. It will act as the finest of tonics to build up and strengthen your system, assist it in overcoming the effects of the disease, and insure a speedy restoration to perfect health.

We have a Home Treatment book, describing the different stages and symptoms of Contagious Blood Poison, and containing many suggestions that will be helpful to you in curing yourself with S. S. S. We will send this book and any medical advice desired to all who write; no charge for either. S. S. S. is for sale at all drug stores.

Chapter Nine

THE letter which gives Julia Robins the history of that Sunday—so eventful alike for France and for Sophy—is the last word of hers from Paris. Julia attached importance to it perhaps for its romantic flavor, perhaps because she fancied that danger threatened her friend. At any rate, she bestowed it with the care she gave to the later letters and did not expose it to the hazards which destroyed most of its predecessors. It is dated from Marie Zerkovitch's apartment in the Rue du Bac, and it ends, "I shall sing here, whatever happens, unless Casimir tells me to meet him in Berlin."

The rash comprehensiveness of "whatever happens" was not for times like those, when neither man nor nation knew what fate an hour held, but for three weeks more she abode with Marie Zerkovitch. Marie was much disturbed in her mind. Zerkovitch had begun to read her outlandish letters from the front—or as near thereto as he could get. The burden of them was that things looked bad for the French and that her hold on Paris should be a loose one. He urged her to go home, where he would join her, for a visit at all events, very likely to stay. Marie began to talk of going home in a week or so, but she lingered on for the sake of being nearer the news of war. So, amid the rumors of unrelenting victories and the tidings of reverses only too real, if not yet great, the two women waited.

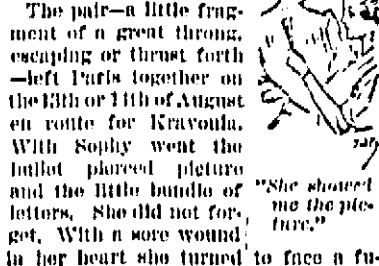

Casimir had found time and opportunity to send Sophy some half dozen notes (assuming she preserved all she received). On the 5th of August, the eve of Worth, he wrote at somewhat greater length: "It is night. I am off duty for an hour. I have been in the saddle full twelve hours, and I believe that, except the sentries and the outposts, I am the only man awake. We need to sleep. The red star, which shines every-where for me, shines for all of us over our lives, one tonight. It must be that we fight tomorrow. Fritz is in front of us, and tomorrow he will come on. The marshal must stop him and spoil his game. If we don't go forward now, we must go back, and we don't mean going back. It will be the first big clash, and a big one, I think, it will be. Other fellows are in the heart—I wish their boots were as good! But those devils over there—well, they can fight, too, and Fritz can get every ounce out of them. I am thinking of glory and of you. Is it not one and the same thing, for in that hour I didn't make you sure? I know it, Sophy, I'm hardly sorry for it. It seems sweet to have something left to do. Ah, but you're hard, aren't you? Shall I ever be sure of you, even though I march into Berlin at the head of a regiment?"

"I can say little more—the orderly waits for my letter. Yet I have so much, much more to say. All comes back to me in vivid snapshots. I am with you in the old house or by the canal—do you remember?—or again by the window or while we walked back that Sunday night. I hear your voice—the low, full charged voice. I see your eyes. The star glows anew for me. Alas! I live for you always so long as I live. If I die it will be in the thought of you, and they will kill a prouder man than Sophy's lover. To have won your love, ah, by tomorrow night, yes, and to die for France, would it be ill done for a short life? By my faith, no! I'll make my bow to my ancestors without shame. I, too, have done my part, gentlemen!" say I as I sit down with my forefathers. Sophy, adieu! You won't forget? I don't think you can quite forget. Your picture rides with me, your star shines ahead.

He was not wrong. They fought next day. The letter is indorsed "8th August," presumably the date of its receipt. That day came also the news of the disaster. On the 11th the casualty list revealed Casimir de Sarras' name. A few lines from a brother-officer a day later gave scanty details. In the great charge of French cavalry which marked the closing stages of the battle he had been the first man hit of all his regiment—shot through the heart—and through the picture of Sophy which lay over his heart.

No word comes from Sophy herself, and Mine, Zerkovitch is brief. "She showed me the picture. The bullet passed exactly through where that mark on her cheek is. It was fearful. I shuddered. I hoped she didn't see. She seemed quite stunned, but she insisted on coming with me to Kravonia, where I had now determined to go at once. I'd not want her to come. I thought no good would come of it. But what could I do? She would not return to England. She could not stay alone in Paris. I was the only friend she had in the world. She asked me more than to travel with me. 'When once I am there I can look after myself,' she said."

The pair—a little fragment of a great throng, escaping or thrust forth—left Paris together on the 13th or 14th of August en route for Kravonia. With Sophy went the bullet-placed picture and the little bundle of letters. She did not forget, with a more wound in her heart she turned to face a future, dark, uncertain, empty of all she had loved.

"She showed me the picture. The bullet passed exactly through where that mark on her cheek is. It was fearful. I shuddered. I hoped she didn't see. She seemed quite stunned, but she insisted on coming with me to Kravonia, where I had now determined to go at once. I'd not want her to come. I thought no good would come of it. But what could I do? She would not return to England. She could not stay alone in Paris. I was the only friend she had in the world. She asked me more than to travel with me. 'When once I am there I can look after myself,' she said."

Chapter Ten

THIS ancient city of Slavna, for a thousand years or more and under many dynasties the capital of Kravonia, is an island set in a plain. It lies in the broad valley of the Krath, which at this point divides into two branches, known as the North and South rivers. Slavna is clasped in the embrace of these channels. Conditioned by their course, its form is not circular, but pear-shaped, for they bend out in gradual broad curves to their greatest distance from one another, reapproaching quickly after that point is passed till they meet again at the end, or rather, what was originally the end, of the city to the east. The single reunited river may stand for the skull of the pear.

In old days the position was a strong one. Nowadays it is obviously much less defensible, and those in power had recognized this fact in two ways—first by allocating money for a new and scientific system of fortifications, second by destroying almost entirely the ancient and out of date walls which had once been the protection of the city. Part of the wall on the north side, indeed, still stood, but where it had escaped ruin it was incumbered and built over with warehouses and wharves, for the North river is the channel of commerce and the medium of trade with the country round about. To the south the wall had been entirely demolished, its site being occupied by a boulevard, on to which faces a line of handsome modern residences, for as the North river is for trade, so the South is for pleasure, and this boulevard has been carried across the stream and on beyond the old limits of the city and runs for a mile or farther on the right bank of the reunited Krath, forming a delightful and well-shaded promenade, where the citizens are accustomed to take their various forms of exercise.

Opposite to it, on the left bank, lies the park attached to the palace. That building itself, dating from 1820 and regrettably typical of the style of its period, faces the river on the left bank, just where the stream takes a broad sweep to the south, giving a rounded margin to the king's pleasure grounds. Below the palace there soon comes open country on both banks. The boulevard merges in the main postroad to Volcan and to the mountains which form the eastern frontier of the kingdom. At this date and for a considerable number of years afterward the only railway line in Kravonia did not follow the course of the Krath, which itself afforded facilities for traffic and intercourse, but ran down from the north, having its terminus on the left bank of the North river, whence a carriage bridge gave access to the city.

To vote money is one thing, to raise it another, and to spend it on the designated objects a third. Not a stone nor a sod of the new forts was yet in place, and Slavna's solitary defense was the ancient castle which stood on the left of the bank just at the point of bifurcation, facing the canal and the botanical gardens on the opposite bank. Suleiman's tower, a relic of Turkish rule, is built on a simple plan—a square curtain, with a bastion at each corner, inclosed a massive circular tower. The gate faces the North river, and a bridge, which admits of being raised and lowered, connects this outwork with the north wall of the city, which at this point is in good preservation. The fort is roomy. Two or three hundred men could find quarters there, and, although it is under modern conditions of little use against an enemy from without, it occupies a position of considerable strength with regard to the city itself. It formed at this time the headquarters and residence of the commandant of the garrison, a post held by the heir to the throne, the Prince of Slavna.

In spite of the flatness of the surrounding country, the appearance of Slavna is not unpicturesque. Time and the hand of man (the people are a color-loving race) have given many tints, soft and bright, to the roofs, gables and walls, of the old quarter of the north town, near which Slavna's tower broods with an antique impressiveness. Behind the pleasant residences which border on the southern boulevard lie handsome streets of commercial buildings and shops, these last again glowing with diversified and gaudy colors. In the center of the city, where, but for its location, we may imagine the Krath would have run, a pretty little canal has been made by abstracting water from the river and conducting it through the streets. On either side of this stream a broad road runs. Almost exactly midway through the city the roads broaden and open into the spacious square of St. Michael, containing the cathedral, the fine old city hall, several good town houses dating two or three hundred years back, barracks and the modern but not unsightly government offices. Through this square and the streets leading to it from west and east there now runs an excellent service of electric cars, but at the date with which we are concerned a crazy flier or a crazier omnibus was the only public means of conveyance. Not a few good private equipages were, however, to be seen, for the Kravonians have been from old times a people of means. The city has a population bordering on a hundred thousand, and, besides being the principal depot and center of distribution for a rich pastoral and agricultural country, it transacts a respectable export trade in hides and timber. It was possible for a careful man to grow rich in Slavna, even though he were not a politician nor a government official.

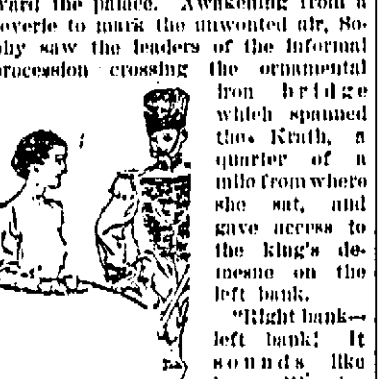

Two or three years earlier an enterprising Frenchman of the name of Rousseau had determined to provide Slavna with a first rate modern hotel and cafe. Nothing could have converted better with the views of King Alexis Stefanovitch, and M. Rousseau obtained on very favorable terms a large site at the southwest end of the city, just where the North and South rivers unite. Here he built his hotel, and named it the Hotel de Paris. A fine terrace ran along the front of the house, abutting on the boulevard and affording a pleasant view of the royal park and the palace in the distance on the opposite bank.

On this terrace, it being a fine October morning, sat Sophy, drinking a cup of chocolate.

The scene before her, if not quite living up to the name of the hotel, was yet animated enough. A score of handsome carriages drove by, some containing gayly dressed ladies, some officers in smart uniforms. Other officers rode on horseback, and a straggling line of onlookers swelled the stream which set toward the palace. Avenking from a revelry to mark the unvoted act, Sophy saw the leaders of the informal procession crossing the ornamental iron bridge which spanned the Krath, a quarter of a mile from where she sat, and gave access to the king's demesne on the left bank.

"Night-bank—left bank! It sounds like home," she thought to herself, smiling perhaps rather bitterly. "Home!" Her home now was a single room over a goldsmith's shop, whither she had removed to relieve Marie Zerkovitch from a hospitality too burdensome, as Sophy feared, for her existing resources to sustain.

Butterflies in Cold Climates. It is a common experience among mountain climbers to find butterflies lying frozen on the snow, and so brittle that they break unless they are very carefully handled. Such frozen butterflies on being taken to a warmer climate recover and fly away. Six species of butterflies have been found within a few hundred miles of the north pole.

TALK OF NEW YORK

Gossip of People and Events Told in Interesting Manner.

Wedding Reconciles the Vanderbilts

NEW YORK.—Not the least interesting part of the recent union of Gladys Vanderbilt and Count Laszlo Szechenyi of Hungary, so far as New York society is concerned, was the belated reconciliation which was made known when Cornelius Vanderbilt consented at the eleventh hour and under much pressure to lend formal sanction to the alliance by giving away the bride. This action restores him to his rightful position as head of the Vanderbilt family, an honor that was taken from him by his father years ago when he married Miss Grace Wilson. The eldest son had stood out strongly against the mother and sister and had refused to consider the young Hungarian nobleman as a suitor for his sister's hand. It was feared that his uncompromising Americanism would mar the wedding and open the breach still wider between Cornelius Vanderbilt and his family.

It is known that neither Alfred nor Reginald favored the match, but their opposition was not so manifest and pronounced as that of the eldest son, Reginald, the third son, is accredited with having acted as the chief agent in bringing about the formal reconciliation. Mrs. Vanderbilt, despite the strongly expressed aversion of her late husband to an international alliance, was her daughter's chief ally throughout the preliminary arrangements.

The question of the size of the countess' dot is still a matter of eager speculation. It was currently reported and believed that a settlement of $5,000,000 had been made upon the young Hungarian nobleman. This was emphatically denied, however, by the count's brothers and by his attorney. They maintained that his own income of $50,000 a year is all that he requires or desires, and that the marriage was the result solely of a love match.

He is said to have inspired confidence as to his powers to retain what over he does not by his treatment of the servants with whom he has come into contact since his arrival in America. The fabulous tales that preceded his advent in America as to the size of the tips which he would scatter are not said to have enabled any of the servants in the home of Mr. Whitney to retire on a competency.

Personally, however, he rather impressed society here. He has a dashing and gallant exterior, the carriage of a guardsman and the grace that comes of an aristocratic line dating back for over 1,000 years.

He is said to be amiable and open of habit, a trifle quick tempered upon provocation, but wanting in arrogance and democratic in manner. He has one duel to his account and is reputed to be the best dressed man in Hungary.

City Parks Are Worth Over a Billion

NEW YORK CITY has one of the greatest public park systems in the world in extent, and the finest in convenience for the use of the people and natural and artificial beauties.

Records of the city department of parks give interesting figures and general information unknown by many of the residents of the city. It is estimated that the public playgrounds, the open places that are not only in bodies of many acres, but in small plots of green that are lungs for the great congested districts of the metropolis, are worth as vacant real estate $1,200,000,000. This enormous amount in value is tied up in land for the health and pleasure of more than 4,000,000 of inhabitants of the five boroughs and friends who may visit them and strangers who come to the city.

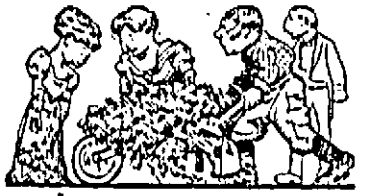

It is shown that the original cost of those parks, which number 113, was about $65,150,000, and they are worth now nearly 20 times as much as at the dates of their purchase. Take for illustration Union, Madison, Tompkins and Washington squares. They cost respectively $116,051 in 1853, $65,952 in 1847, $693,358 in 1854 and $77,970 in 1827, or $353,331 in all, and now real estate experts say that they are worth $20,000,000.

These numerous parks vary in size as much as they vary in location, from a small fraction of an acre at the junction of streets to 1,756 acres in Pelham Bay park, the most extensive park in the city, and forming a grand and magnificent system through the Parkway that connects it with Bronx park, of 661 acres, which, in its turn, is connected on the west by Moshulu Parkway with Van Cortlandt park, of 1,132 acres.

Manhattan, with its more congested population, naturally has the most parks, which number 48, with magnificent Central park, containing 843 acres, leading, as it leads the world, Brooklyn borough, with 28 parks, comes next, with Prospect park of 516 acres at the head of the list. The Bronx has the greatest park acreage, with 17 parks; then comes Queens with seven, followed by Richmond with three.

Flowers Served from a Wheelbarrow

MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR gave a dance the other night at which she taught the Four Hundred that the newest way to serve flowers as favors is from the depth of an old-fashioned wheelbarrow.

So many guests were invited and so many innovations had been provided that Mrs. Astor used both her own mansion, at 810 Fifth avenue, and that of Col. Astor's mother, next door. After Sherry had served luncheon at midnight in a dining room decorated with myriads of pink roses, American Beauties and lilacs, Mrs. Astor began the distribution of the most costly set of favors given to guests at any social function in New York this winter.

Out of the first box popped rose wands for the women and golden cigarette lighters for the men; from the second came forth French novelties in precious gems with silver pencils for the males. Then came brocade boxes and bags and brocade match safes and more trinkets in the finer metals until each guest bore a small load.

Finally a footman, furrow-dressed, wheeled into the big drawing room the gigantic wheelbarrow, smothered in smilax so that not a particle of the wood or iron framework could be seen. From this rustic flower bed guests picked bouquets of lilacs and lilacs of the valley and great bouquets of the same flowers tied with white silk ribbon as the footman wheeled the ancient vehicle from group to group.

After this there was dancing until early morning, which furnished Mrs. Astor with another opportunity for her inventive genius. As the guests were preparing to depart they were served with the second collation of the function—in reality a buffet breakfast because of the lateness of the hour.

The gowns and jewels worn by Mrs. Astor and her guests were extraordinarily brilliant even for an Astor function. Incidentally the display aroused considerable notice in the opera boxes, where the guests attended before retiring to the dance.

Rich Capitalists Turn Bootblacks

AN indication of the important part that the nickels and dimes of the public play in the everyday life of this metropolis is the leasing of the boot-black privileges in the new twin McAdoo terminal buildings, on Cortlandt street, for 12 years at a rental aggregating $124,000. This is at the rate of $10,333.33 a year.

To handle the apparently insignificant job of shining the shoes of the permanent and transient population of this immense building a corporation called the Hudson Terminal Bootblack Company has been formed. The names of the men who are putting up the money have not been made public, but they are capitalists who have figured in deals involving millions.

To earn merely the rent the industrious polishers of shoes in the corridors will have to serve 105,333 persons a year. Added to this they must earn the outlay for wages, brushes, cloths, blacking and other materials and tools before the profits begin to come in.

The backers of the syndicate figure, however, that they will have no difficulty in making a big winning on their investment.

The population of the offices in the building will be 11,000 persons. How many will pass through the corridors to and from the trains is a question that experience must settle, but, basing their figures on the ferry-boat travel, the bootblack promoters figure that at least 2,000,000 shoes will pass under the hands of their polishers in the first year.

The Jacques Carlier, fitted out for Sea, and Captain Denard Leader of the Latest Polar Expedition.

The first polar expedition of 1908 has just left the British Isles in a search for the elusive northern terminal of the world's axis. Captain Denard, a French naval officer of great experience, has just left Dunkirk in a sailing vessel called the "Jacques Carlier." The ship carries a scientific corps of nine men and a crew of eight seamen. It is specially built for work in the polar regions and Captain Denard will be content to study the flora and fauna of northern latitudes if he is unable to make a dash for the north pole itself. The expedition has been planned by a committee on ocean research, established in Marseilles, France, two years ago.

LITTLE JOURNEYS TO THE TOMBS OF AMERICAN PRESIDENTS—JAMES A. GARFIELD, CLEVELAND.

None of the deceased presidents of the republic possess a finer mausoleum than James A. Garfield. His death was surrounded with the romance of assassination, and his burial place has become a mecca for American patriots. Garfield's tomb is in Lake View cemetery, Cleveland, Ohio. It is five miles from the heart of the city, on its world-famous Euclid avenue, and rising 250 feet above the level of Lake Erie, commands a beautiful view. The monument itself stands in an enclosure of over two acres in the highest part of the cemetery. It is 165 feet high. Within is a fine statue of the president, and his remains rest in the crypt below. The noble qualities of Garfield, the dastardly attack upon him, his gallant fight for life, his journey to the sea, the long tension of suspense, the final brave surrender, lent an indescribable pathos to his life, and now makes his tomb a place of pilgrimage, to which one goes almost as to a martyr's shrine.

William Allen White Will Report Republican National Convention For The Gazette

Arrangements have been made for the report of the Republican National Convention at Chicago, commencing June 16th, by William Allen White. Mr. White is a familiar writer to most all readers of the big weekly and monthly magazines to which he is a regular contributor. His original style makes him easily the foremost writer on current topics in the country today, in fact there is only one Wm. Allen White. His articles are brim full of humor and interest which hold the reader from first to last word. The Gazette was fortunate in securing this service as but few papers outside the metropolitan dailies could handle the material. A considerable outlay was necessary to arrange for the report but the Gazette believes in giving its readers the very best service obtainable.

The first article will appear about June 16th.
